TRUST COMPANY CHARTER IS GRANTED CAMERON

Our Town

We believe the school board should project someplans for the improvement of the schools. The bonds in the sum of $100,000 have been sold and the money on deposit in a Cameron bank. Interest and taxes will have to be paid and why not build a building? Why has there been such dealy in the projection of these plans? Now that the school term is ended will not the patrons of the school wonder why no building program is under way? We have heard a great deal of talk about the condition of the grammar school. This was talked to help the bonds as a condition needing remedy in the school but since the bonds are sold little is heard about the building program. A change was made in architects some time ago and it is understood at increased cost. School patrons, we are sure would like to know just what is the status of the building program.

Democrats of Milam County will not readily understand why Cullen F. Thomas, Harper Kirby, Mrs. Van De Watts, M. M. Crane, Cyclone Davis, Morris Sheppard, John N. Garner and others we could mention were not included in the Texas delegation to the New York national Democratic convention. Thomas and Davis were both delegates in this convention. Instead the delegation numbers among its members John Mathis of Houston, Zeke Marvin and Mike Lively of Dallas. Prohibition democrats in this county recall the now famous joint debate on the court house square between Cyclone Davis and John Hathis, the former for the drys and the latter for the wets. Prohibitionists must also wonder why in the face of Zeke Marvin's payment of fines in the federal courts in Dallas county for unlawfully selling liquor, he was included in the delegation. What is the answer?

The Home Beautiful contest sponsored by the Lions Club is a step in the right direction. Nothing is quite so effective of displaying the good qualities of a town as civic improvment. Certainly the contest will inspire home owners to look after the civic appearance of their homes. We need more of it. Let the spirit of the Lions Club be reflected in all our civic endeavors and let our similar organizations take up the burden of civic welfare.

Cameron is going to have another big gin plant. R. L. Batte is going to be one of the associate owners and operators of this new plant and that fact alone is sufficient guarantee that it will be a plant worthy in every way of the prosperity and demand of the city. Few of us realize just how fast Cameron is growing. It will serve to increase our faith in our town if once in awhile we would go around and see just what is hapening. The new gin plant for Camron means a growth in farm interests and that more cotton is to be marketed here and thereby more wealth to swell avenues of trade. To Messrs. Boedeker and Schidler who are to be with Mr. Batte in the management of this plant we add our congratulations and extend to them a welcome to our city.

It is said that the city administration has been criticised by some on account of the slow progress of the paving contract. It has however been shown that failure of property owners to comply with the ordinance requiring lead pipe water connections to be made have been the direct cause of good part of the delay. However the criticism seems to be well put in the main, only probably misapplied. The fault would seem to lie with the contractor to some degree because no force of workmen have been on the job for some weeks and the gravel in many places has not been laid on the base. The asphalt plant is not yet erected nor have the streets been cut down to proper curve and practically no gravel has been laid on some blocks.

HARRY P JORDAN VISITS CAMERON IN INTEREST OF RACE FOR STATE SENATOR.

Harry P. Jordan of Waco was in Cameron Thursday in the interest of his candidacy for the office of state Senator from this district. Mr. Jordan spent the day mingling with his friends and talking over the campaign.

Mr. Jordan while in Cameron was a caller at the Herald office and placed some advertising carrying a message to the voters of the district.

He formerly made the race for the office. He has a number of friends and supporters in Cameron.

D. R. CRISWELL IN RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY SUBJEST TO ACTION OF DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY JULY 26

D. R. Criswell of Buckholts is a candidate for representative from Milam county subject to action of the Democratic primary on July 26.

The announcement of Mr. Criswell that he will make the race for this office from this county will be received with interest by his friends.

Mr. Criswell is a pioneer citizen and well known to the voters of Milam county. His life has been closely identified with the history of the county.

Mr. Criswell taught school in the county for ten years and for the past twenty years has held license to practice law in all the courts of Texas.

During the world war Mr. Criswell served as a member of the County Council of Defense and also a member of the auxiliary to the draft board known as the re-classification board.

The Herald is authorized to announce that D. R. Criswell of Buckholts is a candidate for Representative of Milam county in the State Legislature.

Mr. Criswell made the race for this office four years ago and received a splendid vote, it being a three-cornered race.

Mr. Criswell has been a leading citizen of Buckholts for quite a while, having lived in that town and vicinity for the past forty years. He is an old cattle driver and Indian fighter and has seen Milam county develop from almost a wilderness to its present high state of cultivation and improvement.

He served his precinct as Justice of the Peace for fifteen years, filling the office with credit to himself and the precinct, During the war he was a member of the war board for Milam county, serving faitfully and patriotically.

Mr. Criswell is one of the county's most substantial citizens and is well qualified to fill the office he seeks in a creditable manner. He promises if elected to serve all the people faithfully and impartially and to the best of his ability.

He will appreciate your support in the campaign and your vote on primary day.

Jim Ferguson To Speak In Thorndale Friday

Former Governor Jim Ferguson will address the voters in Thorndale Friday June 13 at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting has been largely advertised and a great crowd of people is expected to hear the former governor discuss the issues of the campaign.

Ferguson carried this county against Earle Mayfield in the run off Primary for United States Senator two years ago and has always been a strong favorite in this county.

Mr. Ferguson declares he will "call a spade a spade" in his forth coming address at Thorndale Friday afternoon. Jim always calls the cards just about like they are printed and many of his friends will go over to hear his speak.

Ferguson's name will not go on the primary ticket unless the supreme court should decree he is eligible and the committee for the state shouuld consent to put it on.

T. W. DAVIDSON TO SPEAK IN CAMERON ON JUNE 19

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR WILL ADDRESS VOTERS AT 8 P. M. JUNE 19.

T. W. Davidson, candidate for governor, will address the voters of Cameron on Thursday night June 19 at the court house.

Mr. Davidson will speak in Temple at 3 p. m. of the same day and will come over to Cameron by auto. A number of his friends will likely go to Temple to escort the candidate to Cameron.

T. S. Henderson will likely introduce the candidate, being the manager for his campaign in this county. He introduced Mr. Davidson at Marshall when the latter opened his campaign in March.

Mr. Davidson declares he is opposed to the Ku Klux Klan and those who hold that view are supporting him very largely in this county.

Charges have been made that Davidson would receive the support of the Ku Klux Klan. It is known that Pat Neff is strong for T. W. Davidson, making the Marshall candidate a strong contender for the nomination. He has many supporters here and all charges of Klan support has been denied both by Mr. Davidson and his friends.

HON. T. S. HENDERSON TO SPEAK GAUSE SATURDAY

WILL DISCUSS KU KLUX KLAN IN POLITICS AND TALK FOR T. W. DAVIDSON.

Hon. T. S. Henderson of Cameron will deliver an address at Gause on Saturday June 14 at 3 p. m. for T. W. Davidson candidate for Governor.

Mr. Henderson will also discuss the Ku Klux Klan in politics as a portion of the address he is to deliver.

The address of Mr. Henderson will be the first speech to have been made in the governor's campaign in the county by one other than a candidate and is expected to formally open the campaign for T. W. Davidson in this county.

Considerable importance is attached to the announcement that Mr Henderson will discuss the Ku Klux Klan in politics. This also is taken to be the sounding of the first note in opposition to the Klan as an issue both in state as well as county politics.

Mr. Henderson is supporting T. W. Davidson for governor and introduced the Marshall candidate in his opening campaign speech at Marshall in March.

It is understood that a number of people will go to Gause from Cameron to hear this important address by Mr. Henderson.

Expediency and Principle

By Austin Callan.

Standing on the steps of the National Capitol and looking toward the Potomac, one's eyes behold an inspiring and beautiful picture. Washington is a centerpiece of natural glory, into which man has weaved some wonderful art and through which the soft memories of unselfish patriotism run like threads of gold.

You catch in the sunlight a glimpse of the great monument lifted heavenward to the honor of the Father of His Country; you see the Lincoln Memorial throwing its shadow down among the cherry blossoms that smile back from the crystal waters of the mirror lake; you look upon the phantom figures of Cockburn's unwelcome guests coming to burn our noble citadel; and, not far from the White House, you behold the old building once occupied by James Madison, "the Father of the American Constitution."

These things thrill you; they remind of stirring epochs and great souls in the Nation's history.

But over beyond the pavement of the city, across the placid water and among the green hills of Virginia, we find a storied mansion. The foliage of the wood half hides the white walls, the dreamy haze of many yesterdays that are gone cover it with soft and holy folds. Robert E. Lee lived there; within that house the great, clean-hearted leader was called upon to decide between the highest place of military honor the United States had to bestow and what he believed to be his duty to a cause.

Two paths lay open; one promised dazzling success, the other held out defeat. He tried the case in the supreme court of his conscience and did is that high tribunal dictated. The crown of expediency was waved aside the rugged cross of an inherent principle was taken up. And this serves as an example and it should serve as an inspiration for some of the time-serving politicans of today who prostitute their convictions in order to secure recognition.

Lee possessed that finest thing found in all the world, a human soul that was not for sale. What a contrast to those who bend with cringing knee to the selfish demands of an organized group.

Democracy is challenged, representative government is challenged by forces operating behind closed doors, speaking the language of blocs and denying sacred and primal verities of liberty to a part of the people. Against this sort of thing the great hearts and true faithfuls of the ages have fought, against it the defenders of the American Constitution must array themselves and say to the opportunists, the place-hunters, the captains of every clique or class or clan: "You shall not pass."

We need to hear something of our Constitution, something of the Bill of Rights, something of Democratic fundamentals here in Texas again. We need the services of such leaders in the high parliament of intellect as Joe Bailey, John Henry Kirby, Nelson Phillips and Charlie Greenwood, to teach us a little of the philosophy of government.

This Nation won its illustrious place in the sun by adherence to the Constitution. Its wealth was acquired because of the guarantees of that document; its future liberty rests upon those guarantees. The groups have issued a defy against it. Shall we fight or fluke?

LAGRANGE PRODUCE MAN WILL MANAGE FIRM IN CAMERON IN THE FUTURE.

S. P. Doggett of LaGrange has been made manager of the Peter Produce Company in Cameron, taking the place of E. V. Ferguson who will leave this week for Pennsylvania where he will hold a position with Wilson & Company, packers.

Mrs Doggett has been in the produce business for the past fifteen years and had been manager of the branch of the Peter Company in LaGrange for the past two years and is a man of wide experience in the business and will bring to the Cameron branch exceptional qualities of leadership and management.

The Cameron branch of the Peter Company is one of the most important branches of the firm, annually handling many thousands of dollars in produce.

Mr. Doggett will move his family, wife and two children, to Cameron in the near future. The city welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Doggett and family.

Mr. Ferguson who will leave for Pennsylvania this week leaves many friends in Cameron who wish for him success in his new position. Mr. Ferguson came to Cameron last year from the service of the Wilson & Co. packers, in New York, where he had resided for a number of years.

The produce industry in recent years has become one of the most important branches of the packing industry and has resulted in great financial benefits to the farmers.

NEW CHRYSLER SIX.

The White-House Motor Company is displaying the new Chrysler Six in the show rooms this week. They have secured the agency for this car and are very much gratified with the success they have had in demonstrating. All who have ridden in the Chrysler pronounce it a jam-up automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hodges of Taylor motored to Cameron Sunday morning, where they were joined by Miss Lalla Meyers who accompanied them to College Station to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Edna Meyers.

The company will be known as the Texas Trust Company with H. M. Hefley as President and J. L. Clinton Secretary and Tresurer.

The following are the stockholders: J. S. Barmore, J. L. Clinton, Dr. T. J. Denson, H. M. Hefley, J. C. Joseph, Isaac K. Kneer, W. S. Landis, F. C. Mondrik, S. W. McClearen, John S. Owens, Rev. S. Spirneweber W. O. Triggs, E. Voglesang, Jr., and J. P. Werner.

Mr. Hefley and Mr. Clinton were formerly connected with the First National Bank of Cameron, Mr. Hefley as cashier and Mr. Clinton as assistant cashier. They left the service of this bank on January 1, 1924.

Mr. Hefley and associates applied for a charter for a state bank in Cameron but this was denied by the board after a long delay in action featured by protests from local banks and from opposition of Bankers Association of Texas.

The granting of the charter for the Trust Company will be received with a great deal of interest by the people of this county and especially the friends of Messrs. Hefley and Clinton.

Mr. Hefley says that he expects to open for business on or about the first day of July.

46 COMMITTEEMEN WILL FORM DEMOCRATIC BODY

NEW LAW REQUIRES INCREASED NUMBER, 1 FROM EACH VOTING BOX.

A new law enacted by the 38th Legislature requires that the Democratic Executive Committee shall be composed of one member from each voting box in the county and Milam county will have 46 members on the committee and the new law provisions have been set out as follows:

The next Democratic Executive Committee of Milam county will be composed of forty-six committeemen. One elected from each precinct in the county.

The 38th Legislature, at its regular session, enacted a law amending article 3107 of the statutes relating to our county executive committee.

Heretofore there has been elected one committeeman from each Justice precinct and one county chairman, making nine members under the old law.

This year there is to be elected one committeeman from each voting box together with one county chairman, making a total of forty seven members.

It is necessary that the candidates for the respective committeemen file their application with the chairman of the present executive committee before the 14th day of June for a place on the ballot in the July primary.

It is important that each community awake to the situation and look after its best interest in this respect.

FLAG DAY JUNE 14.

One day in the year, June 14, is set aside to honor the flag—our flag, the flag. Not because it is pretty, not because it is red and white and blue, not because it is the personal possession of every American, but because of what it means, what it stands for, what it typifies, what it prays and what it hopes!

It means liberty; liberty of thought liberty of conscience, liberty of action within just laws, liberty of worship, liberty of government. It stands for law and order, protection and security justice and a square deal, honor and righteousness. It typifies the ideals of a hundred and ten millions of people, the heritage they have taken from the hands of the mighty forefathers, the torch of happiness in equal opportunity lit in 1776 and kept brightly burning ever since. It prays for strength to keep our vision clear; aye, that flag, flying in the breeze, is an American's prayer to God for strength to keep what he has won of truth and right, for wisdom to continue upon earth those social and political liberties which make this God's country. And it hopes. Its proud flutter in the wind, its beauty overhead, is an outward and visible symbol to all the world of the inner and spririal hope of every thinking American that this nation, under God, may so act and live that His blessing may continue to rest upon it.

Honor the flag, this day. Fly it, take off hats to it, celebrate it. Let there be no hamlet so small in all this land that a procession is not formed in its honor; let there be no city so great and busy that its citizens forget to thrill once more at the sight of Old Glory.

Flag day, June 14—best of all days for all of us to enter a hous of God and on bended knees thank the Giver of all good that it is our good fortune to live and love and prosper under such a flag.—Scottish Rite News.

WAR ON MOSQUITOES IS URGED BY DR. SUTTON

CITY SANITARW OFFCER CALLS ON CITIZENS TO FIGHT DISEASE INSECTS.

To curb possible epidemics of contageous diseases Dr. G. E. Sutton has issued the following statement to the people of Cameron asking them to wage war on mosquitoes:

To Mr. Householder:

Stop the thief!

Mosquitos will steal your sleep in you let them.

Stop mosquito breeding on your premises.

Mosquitos cannot breed without water for their eggs to hatch and grow in.

Look to your areaways, drains, gutters, tanks, cisterns, cesspools, barrels, bottles cans and all possible places where water may collect.

To prevent mosquitos, prevent standing water, or wherever this cannot be done (as with roof tanks) cover it tightly with close-mesh wire netting, or otherwise, so that there is not even a small hole through which mosquitos may pass.

The Department of Health requires you to prevent all mosquito breeding on your premises, and will co-operate in every way with assistance and advice.

If your neighbors are careless, notify the Department of Health.

G. E. SUTTON,
Sanitary Officer.

Finding Silk at the Seance

By CLARA DELAFIELD

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I TELL you it's the real thing," said Purvis to his wife. "Mrs. Capell is the most famous medium in the country. Eminent scientists have testified to the genuineness of the materializations. She is searched before she enters the cabinet—"

"Oh John, darling, I must stop at Rodway's first and try to match that white silk for Mrs. Jones—"

"No time," growled her husband. "We'll have to leave it for next time we come into town. The seance begins in ten minutes. We'll have to take a taxi."

In the taxi Purvis, who was an enthusiast, continued: "I tell you this is your chance of seeing the most wonderful exhibition of the century. Mrs. Capell is a genuine medium. She is examined, then she goes into the cabinet, and the most wonderful figures emerge, clothed in ectoplasm—"

"What's ectoplasm, dear?" asked Mrs. Purvis.

"Oh Lord, haven't I explained that to you again and again? Ectoplasm is a filmy emanation from the body of the medium, out of which the spirits of the departed build up their—"

"I do wish it had been possible to match that silk for Mrs. Jones," sighed his wife. "She is so anxious for me to try and get some."

"Just like a woman!" growled Purvis. "Here you have the opportunity of investigating the most wonderful exhibition of the century, proving beyond doubt the survival of the dead, and you go worrying about a piece of silk!"

Little Mrs. Purvis sighed and was silent. In due course the taxi deposited them at their destination. Inside the drawing-room a curtain had been stretched across one corner. Mr. Capell was speaking. He told of his wife's wonderful materializations. He took up a collection. The lights were turned down, except for a ghostly glimmer in one corner. Mrs. Capell, clothed in a dark material, entered the cabinet. The gramophone began. Silence.

Then a gasp as a white-clad figure appeared in the entrance.

It disappeared. Another emerged. Mr. Capell approached the front line of the audience.

"Will the lady on the left step up to the cabinet?" he asked. "The spirit says it's Uncle John."

The lady stepped up and in hollow tones the specter held a conversation with her. She returned wiping her eyes.

"Dear Uncle John says he's happy," she whispered to her companion.

"Hope Uncle John doesn't find it too warm where he is," growled a skeptic next to Mrs. Capell.

One by one the audience were invited to step up as the ghosts issued from the cabinet. Purvis pinched his wife's arm.

"Believe now?" he demanded. "I tell you it's the most wonderful—"

"Oh, I wish I could speak to dear Aunt Eliza," said Mrs. Purvis.

"What d'you want to see that old cat about?"

"Darling, she died without giving me that wonderful recipe for banana pudding that—"

"Oh, you're hopeless," muttered Mr. Purvis.

"But don't you think she'd give it to me now, darling?" whispered his wife. "I'm sure she doesn't need it any more, and—"

Mr. Capell touched Mrs. Purvis on the arm. He had appeared most mysteriously beside her. "There's a spirit known by the name of Eliza," he said in a hoarse whisper. "She wants to speak to you—"

Mr. and Mrs. Purvis took their stand in front of the cabinet. A white-robed specter was standing in the entrance.

"Is it—is it Aunt Eliza?" whispered Mrs. Purvis tremulously. "Oh, dear Aunt Eliza, you know you always promised me that recipe for banana—"

"Banana nothing."

With a howl the specter darted back into the cabinet as the skeptic, apparently by a prearranged plan, suddenly leaped forward and tore the filmy stuff from its spectral bones. At the same time the lights went up.

"Fake! Fake!" yelled the skeptic, holding up yards and yards of clinging white material. "There's your ectoplasm for you!"

"You're a liar!"

"You're another! They're fakers! It's an insult to common sense!"

But amid the pandemonium Mrs. Purvis leaped forward ecstatically and snatched the ectoplasm from the skeptic's hand:

"Darling, I've got it!" she cried ecstatically. "It's real silk, and it matches Mrs. Jones' sample to a shade!"

All of which acts of him, the said Z. E. Marvin, were contrary to the form of the statute in such cases made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the United States of America.

All of which acts of him, the said Z. E. Marvin, were contrary to the form of the statute in such cases made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the United States of America.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Z. E. MARVIN
Certified copy of Information and Judgment and Sentence of Court.

The man who was convicted as above set out is the Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan of Texas. He and his brother Klansmen are yelling to the people of Texas that this campaign is a prohibition fight with the Klan for prohibtion and all those opposed to the Klan for liquor. In view of the above and in view of the Antics of Hanger and Mathis, former saloon defenders, at the Waco Convention the people will certainly take the Klan prohibition professions with a large grain of salt.

Luckily for Marvin he was tried in the Federal Court. If he had been tried in our State Courts his sentence would have been, if convicted, imprisonment for from one to five years.

The Dragon is getting off light in Texas, but in the fulfillment of prophecy he may suffer more severely, as foretold by St. John on the Isle of Patmos in the following language:

"And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years.

And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season." (See Revelation, Chapt. 20 verses 1, 2, 3.) (Adv.)

FOSDICK MUST EMBRACE PRESBYTERIAN DOCTRINE

REPORT SUBMITTED TO SHOW KIND OF INVITATION HE RECEIVED.

In view of the fact that the daily press ran a news item to the effect that the Presbyterians had "invited" Dr. Hnery Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist minister now preaching in the First Presbyterian church of New York, to come into the Presbyterian church, and in view of the fact that this statement has been republished here and caused some comment we are giving below the report of the Judicial Commission of the General Assembly in session at Grand Rapids, from which it can be learned what kind of an invitation he received. It is a courteous request that Dr. Fosdick either conform to the ways and the doctrines of the Presbyterian church or cease to be a trouble maker by withdrawing from Presbyterian circles. The following is taken from the Grand Rapids Herald:

If Dr. Henry Emerson Fosdick is to continue his relations with the First Presbyterian church of New York city, he must accept the doctrinal standards of the Presbyterian church as maintained in the confession of faith, enter that denomination thru the regular method and become subjest to the jurisdiction and authority of the church.

"There is set out in the report of the presbytery of New York a letter from Dr. Fosdick, in which he outlines to a certain exent his beliefs. Unfortunately his statement is not as clear and unequivocal as in the judgment of the commission it should have been, in view of the agitation which has resulted because of the preaching of the sermon entitled 'Shall the Fundafentalist Win? ' We are unable to determine just how far that sermon indicated Dr. Fosdick's personal belief as to the serious and important questions raised by his sermon. We regret that Dr. Fosdick did not in his communication say frankly whether or not he believes what is regarded as essential under our confession of faith.

"In the mandate adopted in May, 1923, the general assembly indicated its purpose to see to it that doctrines contrary to the standards of the Presbyterian church should not be proclaimed in the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in New York. The commission desires to suggest in this connection that it believes that one of the difficulties involed in the situation is the fact that the relationship which Dr. Fosdick sustains to the First Presbyterian church of New York is wholly without a precedent, so far as recorded cases go and so far as the provision of the Form of Government and Book of Discipline indicate. It is an anomaly. Dr. Fosdick is denominated a 'guest," and he has continued to be a 'guest' for a period of over five years. He himself says in his letter 'any gentleman dislikes to be a cause of disturbance in a neighbor's household.' We agree that a very serious disturbance has arisen, and this disturbance is largely the result of this existing anomalous situation.

"Dr. Fosdick shortly after the action of the general assembly, tendered his resignation to the session of the First Presbyterian church and in their reply to the presbytery the session recited this fact and said that, in view of all the circumstances, they deemed it best for the interests of the First Presbyterian church to refuse to accept his resignation and, consequently, they did not transmit this resignation to the congregation of that church. It may well be that, considering only the interests of the First Presbyterian church of New York, this decision of the session was wise, but viewed from the standpoint of the church at large we are not persuaded that it was wise. We are constrained to believe that the existing relations should not continue longer.

"In saying so we do not mean that the First Presbyterian church of New York must of necessity be deprived of the services of Dr. Fosdick, which they so much desire. We do think, however, that if he desires to occupy a Presbyterian pulpit for any extended time he should enter our method and become subject to the denomination through the regular jurisdiction and authority of the church. If this is done, much of the cause of irritation would be removed. If he can accept the doctrinal standards of our church, as contained in the confession of faith, there should be no difficulty in receiving him. If he cannot, he ought not to continue to occupy a Presbyterian pulpit.

"The presbytery in its action states that it holds itself in readiness to receive further report on this subject and to take further steps in relation to it as occasion may require. The session also expresses its willingness to do what is necessary to allay the unrest distress which exists in the church at large.

"We therefore recommend that the presbytery of New York be instructed, through its committee or through the session of the First Presbyterian church, to take up with Dr. Foskick this question to the end that he may determine whether it is his pleasure to enter the Fresbyterian church and thus be in in a regular relationship with the First Presbyterian church of New York as one of its pastors."

EARL B. MAYFIELD TO KEEP SEAT IN SENATE

EVIDENCE HELD INSUFFICIENT TO UNSEAT SENATOR FROM TEXAS

Wasington, D. C., June 7.—The Senate committee invesigating the election contest against Senator Mayfield Democrat, Texas, Saturday upheld his right to a seat in the Senate.

The evidence presented by his Republican opponent, George E. B. Peddy, was held to be insufficient to support charges that excessive campaign funds had been spent in his behalf by the Ku Klux Klan or any other organization or individual in 1922.

The decision was announced after counsel for Peddy, who have been presenting testimony for several weeks, had argued in an executive session of the committee for a continuation of the hearings during the recess of Congress. Senator Mayfield's attorneys had urged action, declaring sufficient evidence already had been pronounced to enable the committee to decide.

Chairman Spencer, in announcing the view of the committee, explained that the full elections committee still must act on the contest and that it would be necessary then to obtain action by the Senate itself.

At the request of counsel for Peddy, the committee agreed to make a further examination before it drafts its report into the chrges of intimidation and unfair practices in the election. Briefs will be filed by counsel on these two phases of the case.

"The sub-committee investigating charge unanimously agreed," the chairman said, "that on the evidence thus far adduced that there was no reason why Senator Mayfield should not retain his seat in the Senate."

"Qustions were raised by counsel for Mr. Peddy regarding alleged intimidation in the elections as well as violation of the laws of Texas and certain legal proceedings at the elections. We decided to accept a digest of the evidence which Mr. Peddy says counsel will present on these questions.

"The sub-committee will examine the digest sometime during the recess of Congress. Should it be of the opinion that there is sufficient showing to go into these matters, there will be further hearings. The committee has only considered and is now only passing upon the charge of illegal expenditures, and it is on that charge that our finding was announced today.

"We have announced that, excepting Senator Mayfield's relations to the Ku Klux Klan and the relations of that organization in his election, this committee is not interested in the affairs of that organization."

Counsel for Senator Mayfield congratulated the committee for the thoroughness and patience with which it half conducted the investigation.

"A conclusion as to weight of evidence expressed by a person who has not heard the evidence and has not read it, and has not heard it read," Luther Nichols, cousel for Peddy, declared in a statement issued after the committee had announced its decision, "involves a species of stultification which deprives the conclusion of all weight. At least some members of the sub-committee have neither read nor heard read, nor otherwise considered all of the evidence. Before the case is finally tried in the Senate all the evidence of course will be considered."

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Confession To Franks Boy Murder Is Made Public; Details Revolting

Chicago, June 7.—The typewriter suporsed to have been used to write a ransom letter sent by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and ichard Loeb to Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks, whom they confessed kidnapping and killing, was found in the lagoon at Jackson Park late Saturday, near the place where Leopold had pointed out that it was thrown. It was taken to the State's attorney's office.

All blame for the murder of Franks is placed upon Leopold by Loeb, in a confession made by the latter to State's Attorney Crowe a week ago, and made public Saturday.

"I want to say that I offer no excuse. If it was not for the suggestion and stimulus of Leopold the crime would not have been committed." Loeb said in ending his confession.

In the confession Loeb said that Leopold and himself had intended to kndnap one of the younger boys from the Harvard school, attended by the Franks boy, and that the crime had been planned about two months ago.

"The plan was broached by Nathan Leopold," Loeb said, "who suggested that as means of having a great deal of excitement, together with getting quite a sum of money."

"Q.—An adventure, you would say?"

"A.—Yes."

"Nathan Leopold has a Willys-Knight sport model, red. It is very conspicuous and so we deemed it inadvisable for use, and decided to get a rented car. Such a car, obtained under a false name, would not be incriminating, were we discovered.

"In order to assume a false name, and a real identity, Leopold deposited $100 at the Hyde Park State Bank under the name of Morton D. Ballard from Emporia. I went to the Morrison Hotel (Chigago) registering under the name Morton D. Ballard, carrying an old suitcase containing some books."

The confession explained the purpose of the books was to lead the hotel to believe Loeb really intended to live there.

He continued:

"We addressed several letters to the Morrison under the name of Morton D. Ballard. Next day I went and got these letters.

"We went for the rented car to the Rent-a-Car people. Leopold went in alone with $400 in his pocket and the letter sent to Ballard at the Morrison and his bank book from the Hyde Park State Bank. He said he was a salesman from Emporia, that this was the first time he had covered this district; that the only person he knew in Chicago was Mr. Louis Mason. He told them this because the Rent-a-Car people demanded three in-town people. He would say he would be willing to deposit $400 to get the car.

"I went to a cigar store, and sat near the public telephone booth whose number Leopold had. He told them this was the number of Louis Mason. The Rent-a-Car people called up and I immediately answered the phone and told them I was Mr. Mason."

Loeb said he recommended "Morton D. Ballard" as "absolutely dependable." With the rented car both youths went to the hotel and Loeb entered to check out. He said he found that the suitcase with the books had disoppeared, that he believed the hotel had become suspicious, and that "therefore I immediately left the room and hotel."

He said they quickly phoned the Rent-a-Car agency whom they previously asked to send "Ballard's" identification card to the Morrison, to send it instead to the Trenier Hotel. Loeb said they then mailed letters to the Trenier Hotel to establish th Ballard identity there.

Loeb continued:

"On May 20, Leopold and I purchased some rope. I, myself alone, purchased both the chisel and some rope. Then we proceeded down the street to a drug store, where Leopold purchased some hydrochloric acid.

"Then we proceeded to Leopold's house, where we got the gags and everything in readiness—some ether that he had in the house, the ropes, the rags to be used as gags, the chisel which he bound with adhesive tape on the sharp end and some hip boots that he believed belong to his brother. I believe also that on that day, the 20th, the various notes were written on the typewriter for Mr. Franks."

The confession tells how the young men waited for a victim and indicates that the one they had in mind was John Levison, but that he eluded them and that the Franks boy was a chance victim.

Loeb told of how they obtained a pair of field glasses from the Leopold home, to watch various boys until they could get a chance to find a likely victim.

Loeb said he obtained the address and telephone number of the Levison boy so if they took him there would be no mistake in transmitting the ransom message.

Loeb claims that he drove the automobile and although admitting that he lured the Franks boy into the car, he says that Leopold grabbed the boy who was seated in front beside Loeb, put his hand over him mouth, and then struck him on the head with the chisel.

Loeb says that it was Leopold who pulled Franks over from the front seat and threw him on the floor of the car and placed the gag in his mouth. Loeb says that it was Leopold who gave him directions to drive into the country to dispose of the body.

Loeb stated that the original plan was to etherize the victim because that was the least messy. He said, however, that the boy was dead when they were ready to dispose of the body which was carried for a block and a half in the "blanket stretheer" to the culvert and that the use of ether was not necessary.

Loeb said that the ransom note, which attracted comment for its scholarly qualities, was composed by him and Leopold several days before the kidnaping and that the actual typewriting was done after the killing, Leopold writing while he dictated.

Asked to repeat the note, Loeb could remember only a few portions textually.

Next he told how they took both Leoplod's and the rented car, transferred the paraphernalia intended for the killing into the rented car, on which they raised the side curtains. Next he told in deail how they drove about for two hours or more looking for a victim. Leob sad this reconnoitering began at the Harvard school, where he went into the play yard to talk with "Mr. Seass," a tutor. The first child he talked with was "a little fellow by the name of John Levison, whom I knew. I just asked Levison about his base ball game and so on."

"I left the playground and went out in front of the Harvard school, where I met my little brother, who attends that school. Then Leopold whistled for me to come over across the street," he continued.

"He told me there were some children playing on Ingleside Avenue that he thought might be possible prospects for kidnaping. We decided, however, not to get them."

Loeb detailed how they circled around for an hour or more while waiting for Levison to leave the other children. It was during this time that they went to Leopold's house to get field glasses because the children were sometimes too far away for close observation. During one wait Loeb went to a drugstore to get the address of the Levison boy's father from a phonebook. Most of the watching was done from the moving curtain car. Leob said all this time was driving. Levison disappeared, Loeb's story continued.

"We proceeded until we got a glimpse of Robert Franks. As we passed him, he was just coming across the street. Leopold got into the back seat. I drove parallel to where young Franks was, stopped, and remaining in my seat, opened the front door and called to Franks that I would give him a ride home. He said no, he would just as soon walk, but I told him I would like to talk about a tennis racquet, so he got into the car.

The actual murder then was described.

Loeb described the drive that followed, always waiting "for it to get dark," following roads with which he was unfamiliar under Loepold's direction. They partly undressed the body.

Once Leopold got out to purchase two "red hots" and two bottles of soda water. Later Leopold alighted again to make a "phone call which had nothing to do with the Frank case."

Loeb described the arrival at the culvert where the body was deposited, his story agreeing with Leopold's confession already published, as to pouring acid on the face and using the boots while stuffing the body into the culvert. Starting home, Leopold telephoned his folks he would be "slightly detained."

Next at a drug store they obtained the address of Franks' father and addressed the ransome letter.

Loeb said they burned Franks' clothing in the furnace at his house. While burning the clothing the blood stained blanket in which Franks' body had been rolled, was hidden near the greenhouse at Loeb's home. Next they tried "to the best of our ability in the dark" to clean the blood stains from the car. This done, they drove to another drugstore, where Leopold telephoned Mrs. Franks that her son had been kidnaped.

On the way home, said Loeb, they threw the chisel out of the car. Next day, they tried, in Leopold's garage, to wash the bloodstains from the rented car. While doing this Loepold's chauffeur saw them.

The confession continued with details already published about planting the letter to Mr. Franks on a railroad train, where they expected him to pick it up and read directions to toss them the ransom money from the rear platform.

After they had dispatched a taxicab to pick up Franks' father, but before they had notified the father, they saw a newspaper extra about finding of an unidentified boy's body and knew it was Franks'.

Loeb said Leopold phoned Franks where to go, but that when the father did not appear at a designated drug store "we realized the body had been identified and that any further attempt to get the money would only result in failure."

They returned the rented car and late the next night they disposed of Leopold's typewriter on which the ransom note was written.

Loeb tore off the key types with pliers and they were thrown into a Jackson Park lagoon and the typewriter into another.

"That is all I have to tell about the murder of Robert Franks," Loeb's confession concluded. "I want to say that I offer no excuse, but that I am fully convinced that neither the idea nor the act would have occurred to me had it not been for the suggestion and stimulus of Loepold. Furthermore, I don't believe I would have been capable of having killed Franks. This statement is made of my own volition."

To the Officers and Members of Cameron Lodge No. 56, I. O. O. F

We, your committee on resolutions beg to submit the following:

Whereas, it has pleased the Supreme Master of the Universe to call from his earthly labors our good Friend and brother, L. C. Hovis, we deem it fit and proper to express by these resolutions our esteem and appreciation for the life and labors of our departed Brother; therefore, be it

"Qustions were raised by counsel for Mr. Peddy regarding alleged intimidation in the elections as well as violation of the laws of Texas and certain legal proceedings at the elections. We decided to accept a digest of the evidence which Mr. Peddy says counsel will present on these questions.

"The sub-committee will examine the digest sometime during the recess of Congress. Should it be of the opinion that there is sufficient showing to go into these matters, there will be further hearings. The committee has only considered and is now only passing upon the charge of illegal expenditures, and it is on that charge that our finding was announced today.

"We have announced that, excepting Senator Mayfield's relations to the Ku Klux Klan and the relations of that organization in his election, this committee is not interested in the affairs of that organization."

Counsel for Senator Mayfield congratulated the committee for the thoroughness and patience with which it half conducted the investigation.

"A conclusion as to weight of evidence expressed by a person who has not heard the evidence and has not read it, and has not heard it read," Luther Nichols, cousel for Peddy, declared in a statement issued [illegible] the committee.

Well, Mr. Editor, I look upon the Ku Kluk Klan as a serious menace to the body politic of this country. If at first its motives were pure it has departed from its moorings. Its councils are full of bootleggers, gamblers and immoral characters, and its leaders are a bunch of wholesale grafters, and while it proclaimed loudly to the world that it was not in politics, it has never been anything but a secret political organization and with its iron hand policy of rule or ruin, is doing its utmost to dominate the affairs of this county. Yes, they have even imported a man from another state to run Texas for us, Old Zeke Marvin if you please, the alleged whisky peddler and grafter. TheWaco convention, is sufficient proof as to what they would do if they had the power. They passed a resolution that none but tried and true pros be sent to the national convention, and the next moment sent some of the bitterest foes of prohibition and woman suffrage the state has ever known. There were two nationally known women in this state honest, intelligent, tried and true, who wanted to go to that convention, but because they didn't have the K. K. K. brand on them they were turned down, and some old whiskey soaks, sent in their place. Some patriotic and commendable act, wasn't it? The line is drawn, they forced the issue, and we have got to meet it, and on the 26 of July is the proper time and the ballot box the place to decide whether or not this bed-sheet brigade shall control the affairs of our government.

I am for T. W. (Whit) Davidson for governor and believe he is big and strong enough to occupy the executive chair.

More next week.

Yours truly.

Making Money AND MILLIONAIRES

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toilsome saving of their daily wage.

But we submit to you the unquestionable fact that more men have reached a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—LAND—which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

BUSINESS requires your sole attention—stocks mean sleepless nights and days of worry—property works by itself for you without your care.

SELECT IT—set it to work—it takes care of itself and will take care of YOU.

A good example of this sort of investment is found in LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS, COTTON FARMS on the South Plains.

Our land is for sale in one or more tracts at from $25.00 to $35.00 per acre, the price depending upon location. The terms of sale are, 20 per cent cash, with deferred payments payable over a period of ten years, and are subject to change without notice. The interest rate is 6 per cent. All deferred payments are payable on or before due dates. Deferred payments may be made over a period of 15 years on a part of our land which we bought on very favorable terms.

Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association Brings Protection Within Reach of Hundreds of Families

Two years ago the Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association, a local aid association, took its place among the beneficial enterprises of Milam county. The association paid its first policy at $258 with an equal number of members.

Today the Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association has upward of 1700 members and its policy is worth $1000 and recently paid a death claim of $1000 to W. N. Carothers of Georgetown, Texas, without making an assessment.

The splendid growth and development of this insurance association is because it has met a definite demand for insurance on this plan bringing protection to hundreds of families throughout this section that could not pay the higher rates exacted by old line and fraternal insurance companies.

Only about 300 members are to be taken into the association. When the 2000 membership mark is reached no more members will be taken in except to supply vacancies caused by deaths and lapses which will not exceed one per cent a year.

It is also pointed out that when the Association has reached a membership number of 2000 assessments of $1 for each member made when a member dies will not have to be levied axcept in the case of one out of each two deaths. The $1000 value of the policy will continue to be paid.

Among the institutions to which Cameron points with the just pride of possession not one is more deserving or productive of greater service to the people than the Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association. The organization of this association in Cameron two years ago brought into existence a needed service to the people in the matter of life insurance which is a necessity. Many families who could not pay the higher insurance rates of other companies found protection in this Association and at a cost not burdensome even to the least prosperous among the people.

More and more as the years go by the mutual insurance association plan of insurance is coming into use because it supplies a medium of protection which cannot otherwise be secured.

The Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association requires a memebrship of 85 and dues in the sum of $2 per year payable $1 each six months. When a member dies an assessment of $1 is made on each member and $1000 is paid to the beneficiary. In the past two years beneficiaries have collected $1000 where the insured only paid in about $7. This illustrates the simple and low financial plan of this insurance and indicates the stable financial assistance that will accrue to policy holders when 2000 members are secured when assessments will be made only on one of each two deaths.

In April 1922 C. W. L. Schaeg came to Cameron and organized the Association. Mr. Schaeg formerly resided at Brady, Texas, and is a native of this state having been born in DeWitt county. He has been altogether responsible for the development of the company, having had a number of years experience with mutual companies and therefore well equipped to undertake and successfully manage a mutual insurance company such as this.

The Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association was organized on April 20, 1922 by C. W. L. Schaeg, who is the secretary and treasurer of the company.

Dr. T. J. Denson is President of the Association; Penn Wolf, Vice President; H. M. Hefley, J. B. White, Robt. McLane, Directors.

The Association has paid six claims in two years but only five assessments have been made. The first policy paid by the company was in the sum of $258 and the second claim paid was for $718. The four other claims paid were for $1000 and all future policies will be worth $1000.

The Association now has upwards of 1700 members and only about 300 more to receive when the full allotment of 200 members will be had. In other sections of the country where these insurance associations are maintained waiting lists are on hand at all times from those who wish to become members of this organization. Those who wish to become members of the association should file their applications at once with C. W. L. Schaeg to be included in the next 300 who are to be so fortunate as to get this insurance.

The office of the Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association is on the second floor of the Moore Building with the Laurence Abstract Company, Cameron, Texas.

The Association should have a large number of policy holders in Cameron. The membership is confined largely to the rural sections and in nearby towns, the city of Cameron not having as yet supported the Association as it should. The Association is a big asset for Cameron and will mean much in future years in the protection it will give to policy holders and the financial impetus it will give to local channels of wealth.

The possibilities of this Association are important for their commercial features as well as service features to a class of people who find they cannot carry expensive insurance.

Age limits for members are from 18 to 60 years, thus affording a wide range of beneficial protection.

The people of Cameron should give support to this Association because of its great mission and also because it is distinctly a Cameron institution and will be of increasing value to the interests that make for a better town and county.

To C. W. L. Schaeg whose influence has been instrumental in building up this Association and whose ability to administer it has incerased its membership to 1700 in two pears, belongs the gratitude of hundreds of people and the well wishes of the people of Cameron for further success in this enterprise.

Cameron should be loyal to this Association. The city should offer to the roll of membership fully two hundred members within the next few months so as to give a strong representation when the 2000 limit has been reached.

Applications for membership may be presented to C. W. L. Schaeg in his office with the Laurence Abstract Company, Moore Building, Cameron, Texas.

MAX REYNOLDS RECEIVES RECOGNITION AS CRITIC AND WRITER OF VERSE.

Max Reynolds, formerly of Cameron and grandson of Mrs. J. T. Smith of Cameron, now residing in Dallas, has gained recognition as a critic of popular fiction and also as a writer of verses.

Below is a criticism recently published in the Dallas News and also a poem on the death of Woodrow Wilson:

Ibanez's latest novel, "The Temptress," is an entertaining novel, but it is a good one. There is no beauty and charm in this story that characterized Ibanez's former works. There is an occasional dullness, and Ibanez, for the first time in his literary career, creamps his style, and one is at a loss to understand why he does it. The characters of "The Temptress" are well drawn, but something seems to be locking in them. Elena, the lovely heroine, is the most interesting character in the book. She is colorful. She is baffling and she is fascinating. She is bad without knowing it, and strange without being exotic. "The Temptress" is a very entertaining novel, and it should be read if only for the character study of Elena.

Stella Dallas is the finest novel that has been produced this year. Not even Rupert Hughes' "Within These Walls" can compare with it. It is intensely interesting from beginning to end, and it is vital and glowing with life.

Stella Dallas is the woman of today. She is neither good nor bad. She is not refined and she is not cultured, but she is not ignorant. She is the kind of woman one meets in everyday life.

"Within These Walls," by Rupert Hughes, is a graphic picture of New York of a generation ago. The story is deeply interesting, and it is very well constructed. The characters are convincingly depicted by Mr. Hughes. They are just human—passion-swept and utterly powerless to control their emotions. Mention must be made of Patty, the exquisite and sparkling heroine of Mr. Hughes' novel. Patty is a kind of heroine that is new to fiction. She is unforgettable.

My Chieftain is dead.
"I am ready," he said.
And went back to the earth
Which gave him birth.
He is gone—My Chieftain.
He lay on a bed—not of pain.
Nor of sorrow or regret—just waiting,
Sleeping peacefully and waiting.
My Chieftain is gone. He left me today,
To go to a land of rest—far away.
He is sleeping now. Resting, Peace.
Just a tired man going to sleep.
Goodbye, My Chieftain, good-bye.

UPWARDS OF 1700 MEMBERS

The Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association offers insurance on a plan and under circumstances not true of any other insurance company not a mutual company. This company has made it possible for hundreds of people throughout this section to carry insurance who could not pay the high rates of old line and fraternal companies. In this way the Cameron Mutual Life Insurance Association has rendered a distinct service to the county and surrounding territory and feels proud of the confidence that has been expressed by the people in its growth and development.

For an entrance fee of $5 and dues in the sum of $2 per year paid semi-annually you can carry $1000 in insurance payable to your beneficiary at your death. Where can you find an insurance contract at such a low cost. Assessments are made on the death of a member and as soon as 2000 members have been secured assessments will be made only on one out of each two deaths. In this way the regular membership will be kept up and the insurance made cheaper than at present. The policies are worth $1000 and are carried at the lowest possible rate.

$2.00 a year plus $1.00 Assessment on the death of a member will pay for $1000 insurance payable to beneficiary. Only 300 more members will be admitted.

Texas Ranchman Who Ran Down 5 Crooks Who Fleeced Him Out of His Fortune Tells of His Exploits

The story of a cow man turned detective and of his relentless tracking of five confidence men who swindled him of $140,000 starts in the June issue of McClure's Magazine. The story, is his own book of his adventures on the four year man hunt, outstrips the deeds of the great detectives of fiction.

Norfleet, a Texas ranchman, fell an easy victim to the stock market swindle. Quickly he discovered he had been duped but instead of depending on the authorities to run down the bunco men, he set out to do it himself.

In a four year hunt he went into every state in the union except Maine. He went to Cuba on his hunt and three times chased the last of the five into Canada.

Three of the swindlers are now in jail. The other two are dead. One died in prison and one, terrified at the chase, killed himself.

The by-products of this remarkable man hunt were considerable. In hunting his own crooks, Norfleet necessarily came in contact with others. Altogether he had a hand in the apprehension of 69 badly wanted criminals. At Denver, for instance, he was a factor in the rounding up of the Lou Blonger gang and the conviction of twenty swindlers in one trial.

Norfleet says the five swindlers, headed by Joe Furey, notorious conman, spent $100,000 in bribes and other "running" expenses while he was after them.

His book, now coming off the press, records his amazing edventures from the meeting with the swindlers to the conviction of the last man. These men, instead of working independently, were members of a closely joined swindlers' ring. Norfleet affirms that the ring is directed from New York, is finianced by wealthy men and institutions scattered over the country and apparently of high standing, operates simultaneously in a dozen cities, maintains an elaborate system of information and communication and lays away a percentage of the spoils for a defense fund.

He goes further and presents a sinister picture of swindles perpetrated without police interference. In describing the indifference of local authorities in many cities, he gives names, places and dates.

Norfleet recently appeared before the congressional committee on claims to ask reimbursement for a part of the expense he had incurred in capturing and securing the conviction of the confidence men. The committee advised him in advance he could talk 15 minutes for it was a busy committee. The committee listened to him for two hours and a half and when he guiltily pulled out his watch there were cries of "go on" so absorbing was his story.

He took up the search alone and unaided from Dallas. He did not even have pictures of the men to guide him. Before he finished he was familiar with the rouges gallery in every city of the country, had met hundreds of miscellaneous crooks and spoiled more than one swindle directed against other men.

The persistent Norfleet, before starting his search, had every tooth in his head pulled.

"There is no disguise so effective as a flexible mouth," he explains. "With removable teeth you can change your whole appearance. I had a full set of gold and sometimes wore sporting clothes, and sometimes I was a toothless old man in rags."

Throughout the four years manhunt raisins and pecans formed his diet.

"To keep me half hungry," he said. "It keept me smelling and on my toes all the time. It sharpened my wits and made me see better. Like a wolf."

GRASSHOPPERS MENACING CROPS AND AGENT AID THE FARMERS.

R. R. Reppert of College Station gave a demonstration of killing grass hoppers today on the Gibson farm on the Brazos River and proved very successful. The following men from Milam county were there, O. W. Wall, W. O. Newton, Montie Thomas, H. F. Smith, Jr., and Geo. Banzhaf county demonstrator.

Grass hoppers have destroyed 75 acres of cotton on Mr. Gibson's farm and there is reported to be grass hoppers on the farms of O. W. Wall, J. F. Coffield, at Tracy, Hilry Smith at Hanover, J. C. Joseph, Jess Hillin at Tracy and on the Steve Wilson place.

Mr. Banzhaf stated that other farms would have them and that every one with cotton should watch for them and begin with the following formula in time to save the cotton. This formula should be put on early in the morning or late in the afternoon and should be repeated every week. About five pounds are necessary per acre.. The Cameron druggists have ordered a quantity of the arsenic and will be here this week.

Wheat bran	25 lbs.
White arsenic or paris green	1 lb.
Lemons or oranges	6 fruits
Low grade molases	2 quarts
Water	1 gal.

Mix bran and poison thoroughly while dry. Dilute the molases with amount of water as named, squeeze the lemon juice into this diluted molasses, then grind the rind of the lemons with a meat chopper and add this also to the liquid. Then mix the liquid thoroughly with the poison bran mixture. After an even mixture has thus been obtained, add more water and mix until a mash is obtained that when squeezed in the hand readily falls apart.

SOCIETY NEWS

BY MRS. JEFF T. KEMP

RECEPTION.

Mr. A. E. Razzor of Denton, and Mrs. W. E. Gaither of Rockdale were named as honorees by Mrs. James Watson for a reception at her beautiful home on Thirteenth street, given in the late afternoon hours of Saturday. The home was in attractive adornment with flowers in varied spring time tints used with ferns in wall vases and floor baskets, but the pink motif was suggested in the sweet peas which gave floral charm to places of vantage and specially in the dining room.

Receiving the guests with all the charm of true Southern courtesy was Gladys Watson and two daintily clad little maidens, Misses Mary Ellen Cottle and Billie Gaither of Rockdale who received the cards of the callers on pretty traps.

Misses Olive Henderson and Lon Davis graciously presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. Oxsheer Smith directed the callers to the receiving line where stood the gracious hostess with her sisters Mesdames Razzor and Gaither, and Miss Louise Gillon, house guest of Miss Gladys Watson.

Mrs. John Watson invited groups of guests into the beautifully arranged dining room where Misses Lucile Camp, Eva Catharine Razzor, Frances Looney, Eugenia Wallace and Mary Sue Denson assisted Mrs. S. A. Cottle to serve an ice course with angel food cake.

Souvenirs were dainty nosegays of sweet yeas tied with pink tulle.

A bevy of beautifully gowned ladies called during the appointed hours. Among the Rockdale ladies present to enjoy this hospitality were Mesdames Loewenstein, Phillips, Crump, Calloway, Phillips, Vance and others.

DANCE AT PARK.

The Pavilion in the City Park was the scene of a gay dance on Thursday evening. Orchestra music gave zest to the dances in which the following group of young people participated: Misses Lon Davis, Lucile Camp, Johnny Boggs, Eugenia Wallace, Nelta Slone, Ruby Cayton Juanita Caldwell.

Messrs. Bassett Watson, Albert Collins, Bonds Laird, Gaston Barmore, Jack Hearrell, Nelson Green, Vernon Roberts, Conn Moody, Richard Vest, L. J. Epperson, Sherwood Owens and Dunbar.

MRS WATSON ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. James Watson invited a group of young friends for a social evening in honor of her niece, Miss Eva Catharine Razzor of Denton, Texas, for Friday evening.

Punch was served during the evening and dancing was the favored diversion.

Brick cream and angel food squares were served near the close of the evening by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. A. E. Razzor.

Announcement was made of the girls camp to be held in the Belton City Park for Methodist girls and young people beginning June 17th. Mrs. Batte will chaperon the camp and a group of Cameron girls and boys.

On account of the afternoon session of the Chautauqua no meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary was held on Monday afternoon.

The Episcopal Guild will not meet again until after the summer vacations of some of its active members. A study of church institutions will be resumed in the fall.

Stomach Distress?

Galveston, Texas—"One year ago I was suffering with indigestion. Everything I ate hurt me and I had almost constant headache. I tried several remedies which did me no good. Then I decided to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Herald per year $1.50.

FOUR ADDED TO BAPTIST CHURCH HERE SUNDAY

SPECIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM PLANNED FOR NEXT SUNDAY AT CHURCH.

"What Then Shall I Do With Jesus Who is Called Christ," was the question propounded to the mob in Jerusalem by Pilate when they sought to have reelased to them the noted criminal pirsoner Barabas.

And these were words of the text used by Rev. E. S. Hutcherson Sunday morning in a sermon full of appeal to the unsaved. The application of the text to the unsaved was woven about the scene where Pilate yielding to the mob but not clear of conscience washed his hands of the entire affair.

"They said in answer to Pilate let His blood be upon us and upon our children, and this is the responsibility of everyone that the blood of Christ is on the hands of all who do not confess him in salvation before men," said the pastor in describing the fateful hour in ancient Jerusalem when the mob cried out for Jesus to be crucified.

There can be no escaping responsibility, he said, for every person must decide this question of "What Shall I do with Jesus Which is Called Christ."

The sermon was preached to a well filled house despite the influence of other attractions for the people.

Three conversions were reported from the Mexican Mission and these were received into the church.

At the evening hour another addition was made to the church by letter, making a total of four for the day.

At night services were held with a strong appeal to the unsaved. This sermon was preceded by a special music program by the choir.

On next Sunday at the church a special program of music has been arranged.

The pastor is away this week attending a meeting of the Alumini of Rusk College where he attended school. While in Rusk Mr. and Mrs. Hutcherson will attend a family reunion of his family.

They will return to Cameron on Friday of this week. There will be no issue of the Messenger, church publication, this week on account of the pastor being away from the city.

Pool Full of Poisoned Water

By ANTHONY REIMERT

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

ALL day long, alone, the sheriff had ridden grimly after the fugitive. It was not the first time he had pursued him. The Nogales Kid had broken jail three weeks before, and the sheriff had his work cut out for him all over again.

Between these two men, the most desperate outlaw the West had known in years, and the celebrated thief-taker, there was a sort of grim chivalry. Neither would take an unfair advantage of the other. It was famous throughout the West, that inverted kind of a love that they bore each other. Yet each would have shot the other down unhesitatingly, in the course of business.

The Kid had been riding through the Barren Lands for three days. He was not far from the border now, and once across it he would be safe. But he would have to stop at the water-hole—the only one between the border and his pursuer.

The water-hole was marked saline on the maps, but though the water was reputed to be undrinkable the sheriff knew that the Kid would have to sample it. In no other way could he reach the boundary. Salt as the sea, the temptation would be irresistible.

And he—he, too, would have to drink of that bitter water. He knew that as he rode on, his wearied, thirsting pony achieving only the slowest pace. No matter! The Kid must be in just as bad a fix. It was a test of endurance. And both men lived upon their nerves.

The sheriff was nearing the water-hole. He scanned the horizon! Ha! Just as he had suspected. There was the Kid's horse, that black patch against the white of the alkali, lying down, perhaps dead. The Kid was his! The sheriff exultantly drew his six-gun and spurred his horse into a dejected amble.

When he drew nearer the sheriff saw the Kid. The sun was low in the west, and it was impossible to mistake that little, elongated black patch beside the water-hole. The sheriff left his pony just beyond gun-range and began running forward. At a distance of a hundred paces he flung himself upon the ground.

He wriggled forward through the alkali. As he drew nearer he made quite sure that the figure was that of the Kid. He wondered why the Kid did not open fire, dead shot that he was, or at least seek the advantage of the cover of the big bowlder on the further side of the little pool. But the Kid lay motionless.

Shamming, no doubt, to throw him off his guard; but the Kid ought to have known that the sheriff was too old a hand to be taken in by that maneuver. He continued to worm his way forward, his gun in his hand, ready to open fire. At the same time he would take the Kid prisoner if possible.

A sudden thought came to him that perhaps the Kid was asleep, worn out after the fatigue of the long ride. The Kid had never been caught napping yet. The sheriff remained on his guard.

But now he was within twenty paces, and the Kid lay on his back, unmoving. The sheriff covered him. He sprang to his feet.

"Hands up, Kid!" he bellowed.

The Kid remained irresponsive. Still covering him, the sheriff made his way round the little pool toward him.

The Kid lay on his back, his open eyes staring up at the blue sky. His face was curiously mottled, and he was breathing hard. The sheriff saw that he was almost at his end. He removed the Kid's belt with the pistols, and began examining the body for a wound.

He turned the Kid over. There was no wound. The sheriff was bewildered. What had happened to the Kid? Clearly some disease must have attacked him, something malignant and diabolically quick in its action.

But now a torturing thirst beset him. At any cost he felt that he must satisfy it, even with the brackish water. It was a desperately long ride to the next pool. Only the utmost resolution could carry him there.

He turned toward the pool. But suddenly a faint cry from the Kid arrested him.

"Sheriff!"

The sheriff turned. "What is it, Kid?"

"Don't drink that water, sheriff. It's full of arsenic," muttered the Kid, as he lapsed into the final coma.

Plan Works Too Well

A young matron is now bewailing the success of a plan originated by her and put into operation some time ago. Her husband had been in the habit of turning up late for dinner one or two nights a week. One evening she playfully suggested that he should pay a fine of $2 every time he was delinquent and that in return she would refrain from chiding him.

He agreed without protest, and the next night cheerfully paid a fine. But the trouble now is that the young matron's allowance has been increased by this means $12 a week and she doesn't know whether to mourn that her husband doesn't love her any more or to contract to purchase on the installment plan a grand piano which she has long coveted.—New York Sun and Globe.

ROBERT GILLON DIES IN GOVERNMENT HOSPITAL.

Through a telephone message Sunday night from Dallas to Miss Louise Gillon who was visiting in the home of Judge Watson, friends in Cameron learned of the death of Robert Gillon, son of Mrs. Lora Gillon, which occurred in Washington City, presumably on Sunday, June 8th.

Robert had been in the Government Service for about eighteen months and had been in a Hospital in Washington for some time seeking to recover from injuries received since entering.

The family were notified on Firday preceeding his death, that his condition was serious and his older brother, William, started at once for Washington, and probably was with him before the end came.

Robert lived in Cameron from the time he was about a year old until he moved with his mother to Dallas a few years ago, and had many friends here who will deeply sympathize with his mother in her profound sorrow.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

Some facts about taking care of your eyes.

It has been my experience that women, as a rule, look more carefully after their eyes than do the men. More women wear glasses than men. More men have cataract than women. Men will buy cheap, mail order glasses, while the women will have their eyes fitted with good ground lenses.

The man (who is supposed to be the bread earner) should wake up to the situation. If you are not getting good service from your eyes, have them tested, you might need some help that we are able to render.

The Legislatsve History of the Commission

By WALTER SPLAWN
Railroad Commissioner of Texas.

The law prescribed as qualifications that a commissioner should be a resident citizen of the state, a qualified voter, twenty-five years of age, neither directly nor indirectly interested in any railroad nor a holder of any office. The salary of each commissioner was fixed at $4,000 per annum. The Commissoin was authorized to appoint one secretary at $2,-00 a year, two clerks at $1500 each per annum, and experts as necessary. The commissioners were to be allowed their travelling expenses, when engaged in the discharge of their official duties. As soon as the commission organized, it issued notices to the railroad companies that heatings would be held in the city of Austin on the existing rates. The commission at first adopted the rates in force, but later issued a schedule reducing many of the freight traiffs, which became effective September 1, 1891. These rates were enjoined and the constitutionality of the commission attacked. The issues were carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

In that contest the Commission was represented by the Attorney General, then Chas. A. Culberson. The issues as to the reasonableness of the rates were by agreement abandoned and arguments confined to the question of the constitutionality of the commission. May 26, 1894 the Supreme Court of the United States held that the commission act by the Legislature of Texas was a valid and constitutional exercise of the state sovereignty and that the commission created thereby is an administrative board for carrying into effect the will of the state as erpressed by its Legislature; that a citizen of another state might contest any rates prescribed by the commission in a Circuit Court of the United States in Texas; that such a suit would not be against the State of Texas; that a court of equity could decree that rates established by the commission are unreasonable and unjust and restrain their enforcement but could not establish rates itself or restrain the commission from again establishing rates.

This decision of the Supreme Court forever settled the question of the constitutionality of the Commission law in favor of its friends. The commission finding itself clothed with rate making power again resumed that part of its work in the summer of 1894.

A TEACHER INCREASED HER EARNING POWER.

In 1917 she Earned $720. In 1923 her income was close to $2,500.

Mrs. Eva McDonald has been a public school teacher for more than fifteen years. And, with all these years of schooling and experience behind her, the winter of 1917-18 found her working under a contract that called for a monthly pay check of $90 for only eight months out of the twelve.

That, if you will remember, was the year in which wages paid common and skilled labor soared to heights never before known. Forced to keep up with high living costs on her meager salary, seeing former students of hers, without experience, earning more than she could command, Mrs. McDonald resolved to find a way to increase her arning power.

She lived teaching work and had no desire to give it up. Commercial teaching offered her a way to remain a teacher and still greatly increase her income. In 1918, when her school closed, she took a Commercial Teachers Training Course. It was in March that she received her diploma.

Imagine her surprise when the school employment department asked her, the very day of her graduation, if she would like to work immediately at $120 a month. She accepted the position offered. Because of her ability as a shorthand writer and typist, she earns about $300 more each year, doing spare-time "odd jobs" of reporting, letter-writing, and manuscript work, etc.

What a wonderful dividend her business education has paid her. And what a wonderful dividend it can pay any young man or young woman with a foresight, energy and ambition.

We have many teachers in attendance at our school during each summer. If you are a teacher, or if you intend to take up teaching work, won't you arrange to join them? A few months' Training here can make a life time of difference to you.

The courses taught are especially arranged for teachers and are General Secretarial, General Business, General Banking, General Railroad and Western Union, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Penmanship, Civil Service Cotton Classing and Radio. Should you desire to quit teaching altogether, these same courses will place you in a splendid office position with good pay.

RESULTS WERE LASTING SAYS JOS. P. HARDING

TANLAC RESTORED CORSICANA MAN TO HEALTH SEVEN YEARS AGO.

"About the best thing I could say for Tanlac is that I am still enjoying the good health it brought me six or seven years ago," recently declared Jos. P. Harding, 210 W. 4th Ave., Corsicana, Texas. Mr. Harding further said:

"I am now 73 years old, weight 180 lbs., and enjoy perfect health. To have no physical ailments and feel so strong and well at that age is certainly something to be thankful for and I just can't praise Tanlac to highly.

"Before I got on to Tanlac my appetite had left me. I was away down in weight, was exteremely nervous and had very little strength or energy. As I was getting along in years I didn't know but what my ailments indicated a general decline.

"But in a few days after I began taking Tanlac I started tocome right back and then I knew that all I needed was the right medicine for my case. Five or six bottles of Tanlac fixed me up with a dandy appetite, set my nerves in order, brought back my strength and added ten pounds to my weight.

"Tanlac just about made me over, you might say, and I feel good enough now to go out and do the old work of farming and saw milling again. My advice to anyone who can't eat or sleep right and feels run-down, is TAKE TANLAC. It sure will build them up and make them feel like new."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Five Milam County Boys To Citizens Training Camp

Fort Sam Houston, Texas, June 4. —Add the names of three more far-sighted Milam County youths to the scroll of patriotic, for the applications of Messrs. Frank Stewart Cheeves, Royal Preston Jeter, Ned Hooks Slocomb and Cecil Gus Wilson, of Cameron, Texas, for admittance to the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, during the month of August, were approved today by the Commanding General, Eighth Corps Area.

The Eighth Corps is rapidly forging ahead of other Corps Areas in the matter of securing applications for the Summer Training Camps and with two more months to go only some eleven hundred applications are needed to put the Corps Area over the top for complete quotas. This task should not be as stupendous as it might appear, for during the past week over one thousand applications have been accepted for the summer-camps in this Corps Area, the figures now being 3200 out of a maximum quota of 4.300.

Allocation of students to the various camps to be held in the Corps Area to date gives Fort Sill, Okla., the lead with over eleven hundred students, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, running a close second with over 900, Fort Logan, Colorado, 350, Fort Huachuca, Arizona 250 and Camp H. J. Jones, Arizona, in the neighborhood of 150 At this rate of progress there is little doubt but the 1924 training camps will be the largest ever held in the Eighth Corps Area. Comparative figures issued by the Adjutant General of the Army last week showed the Eigth Corps Area well down the list of Corps Areas on returns for the recruiting of young men for these camps, but the remarkable gains the past week have changed these statistics completely and place this Corps Area close to the top. That the interest in these camps is increasing rather than decreasing is proven by the number of applications received at Corps Area Headquarters daily, and it is plain to see that the young men of the country are beginning to realize that a month's vacation at Uncle Sam's expense, with all the advantages that these camps offer, is something worth snapping up.

The War Department is insistent in pointing out that the summer camps are not to promote a spirit of militarism, but to teach the value of healthful, outdoor exercises, discipline and respect for duty, and at the same time provide the country with a reservoir of trained men in case the country is called upon to defend its honor against an invader. To this end every step will be taken during the period of the camps to safeguard the moral and physical well-being of the students so that when they complete the course they will have gained everything and lost nothing.

Add the names of two more far-sighted Milam county youths to the scroll of patriots, for the applications of Fred Torbett Childress, and Guy William Butler, for admittance to the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, during the month of August, were approved today by the Commanding General Eighth Corps Area.

SAYS HUDSON-ESSEX HAVING BEST SALES IN HISTORY OF COMPANY.

Into the home stretch of the spring selling season, Mr. Horstmann for Hudson and Essex cars, reports that 1924 has given him the largest volume of business his concern has ever known, and that current sales are at the best figure of the year.

This is due, he declares, to a steady demand for the Super-Six and to a doubling of Essex business over any other year in the history of the Hudson-Essex organization. He said further that open car and sedan sales had run along at a satisfactory rate, and that the demand for the coaches —both Hudson and Essex—had been far beyond his most optimistic estimates.

"The public has sold itself on the coach," he declared. "We actually have done very little to urge motorists to adopt this type of car. But it fits the needs of the average motor car owner so perfectly that its sale in a very large volume has just come about naturally.

"In the winter it sold because a closed car has obviously many advantages in that season over the open types.

"In the long rainy season which occupied our 1924 spring, the coach was wanted because it gave perfect protection and comfort at a moderate cost.

"And now that we are coming to warm weather, motorists are going to want the coach because it will protect them from dust and wind, and because the occupants can regulate the temperature and ventilation just exactly as they want it. The closed car is warmer in winter and cooler in the summer.

"The Essex six continues to receive the most complimentary reviews and descriptions in the technical press, both here and abroad. The factory has just forwarded to us an account of the car written by the foremost motor expert of South Africa—which is certainly difficult territory for any automobile. He said that the Essex six conforms to the very best ideas of design both from America and Europe, that further it is one of the most remarkable cars and values he has ever witnessed, and still further that he is astounded that it can be offered at so reasonable a price."

Cramping Spells

"FOR MORE THAN A YEAR I had been in a very bad condition," says Mrs. R. E. Kimbrell, of Route 1, Dorchester, Texas. "I suffered with cramping spells which gave me bad pains in my back and sides. Sometimes I would have to catch at something, I would get so suddenly dizzy. . . . I had to quit doing my work. I tried many remedies, but none of them seemed to do me any good.

"In April I went up to Arkansas to visit my sister. . . . She said to me, 'Willie, if you are going to take anything, take Cardui. It will really help you.' I came home and told my doctor what she had said and he said I could not take any better tonic, so my husband immediately got me a bottle and I began it. . . . My case was a pretty tough one, I know, so I kept on faithfully. After the fourth bottle, I began to feel very much better, so much so that I was surprised at myself. I have taken six bottles now and I can truly say I feel like a different woman. . . . I feel fine and I owe it all to Cardui, which I took faithfully."

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Investing in Mortgages

"Aunt Emmy, what do you think of mortgages as investments?" asked Ethel.

"First mortgages, generally speaking, are sound investments, but not all first mortgages are good," Aunt Emmy replied. "You must exercise care and discretion. If you know all about the property, or if you are dealing with a financial concern that has a reputation for success and honesty, you should be safe. But it is well to seek advice before investing. Go to your bank, talk the whole thing over and be guided by their advice. Real estate transactions are tricky. Better be safe than sorry. If there is any question as to party walls or if the building on property should be even a few inches over the lot line, you would undoubtedly have trouble.

"Even guaranteed mortgages should not be bought on faith. Never buy a mortgage without knowing the value of the real estate it covers and of the property in the vicinity. Be sure a good lawyer looks out for your interest. With your small capital there is too much risk in buying without every safeguard.

"Remember that taxes and insurance must be paid regularly when they are due. You must know that they are paid, and remember, to see that the property you lend money on should be worth considerably more than you are lending."

"What about second mortgages, Aunty, don't they earn more than first mortgages?" inquired Ethel.

"Sometimes they do. Second mortgages are good investments under certain conditions. But it is not advisable for an investor of limited means to buy them. In case the first mortgage should be foreclosed, the holder of the second mortgage should be in a position to protect his interests by being able to buy the first mortgage. That means you would have to have money on hand."

"Oh, Aunty," exclaimed Ethel, "you rather frighten me about mortgages."

"No, my dear, don't feel that way," said Aunt Emmy. "It's all a matter of care and knowledge of conditions. Even if you don't know about these yourself, you can protect yourself by taking the advice of your banker. Don't trust too much to your own judgment."—ANNE B. AYMES.

THE INFANT PRODIGY

The overnight development of the radio industry, even in a swiftly moving world, is one of the commercial romances of this century. Within the span of a little more than four years the ranks of the manufacturers, composed chiefly of those who had aided the army and navy during the war in the creation of the wireless telephone, have grown from a group of about fifty pioneers into an army of more than 3,000. Sales of radio material in 1920 amounted to a bare $1,000,000. It is estimated that the American public during the past year spent at least $150,000,000 in acquiring sets and parts of the instruments that tapped the ether. The strides that the industry is making may be indicated by the statement that expenditures for research by one of the large manufacturing groups during the next year will exceed the amount of the total sales just four years ago.

The industry is so new that the Government has been unable to take a census to determine its rank or proportions. Congress has not had time to frame legislation regulating it. Its past events have been kaleidoscopic and the industry now is described by some as in a state of flux, although there are growing indications that it will settle down. For, with the changing phases, there is a distinct movement in the direction of standardization.—American Bankers Association Journal.

Economy in Government Administration Will Lower Taxes

"Waste and evtravagance in the administration of the affairs of the State will raise taxes and thereby place a burden upon the backs of the people," said Major Harry P. Jordan, candidate for State Senator from this district while spending the day in Cameron electioneering with the citizens of this community, and he further stated: "While I don't believe in stinting, but we all know that there is too much carelessness and indifference in making appropriations. Recent legislatures have been prone to extravigance with the tax money, I just ask you to compare the appropriation of the 33rd Legislature, of which Legislature I was a member of the House from McLennan county, with the appropriations of the 38th Legislature and you can draw your own conclusion as to which Legislature was the most conservative in the expenditures of the State's funds, and while considering the appropriations of these two Legislatures you must consider that the State of Texas has only added to its population in those ten years just 1,000,000 people. I was not a member of the 38th Legislature. I think the legislator should exercise the moral and physical well-being of the students so that when they complete the course they will have gained everything and lost nothing.

Add the names of two more farsighted Milam county youths to the scroll of patriots, for the applications of Fred Torbett Childress, and Guy William Butler, for admittance to the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, during the month of August, were approved today by the Commanding General Eighth Corps Area.

"PRUDENCE"

By FLORENCE MELLISH

(©, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

WHEN Amos Whiting told Hawkins to give Oscar French something on the Eagle, Oscar did not have the vanity to think it was wholly on account of his own journalistic ability. Oscar's father had been Amos Whiting's closest chum. But Oscar had a knack for writing, and he meant to make good.

"You'll have to take whatever Hawkins gives you, even if it doesn't happen to suit your taste; then, by and by, you may get something different."

"We're swamped with sub reporters already. But if Whiting—see here, you may have 'The Twilight Hour.' Mrs. Starkweather is laid up indefinitely. You give advice to girls, discreet and sensible, but sympathetic. See? Your desk is over there by the window. I'll send you some of Mrs. Starkweather's files so that you can get her drift. Your signature will be 'Prudence Kenworthy.'"

"But—isn't that a lady's name?" Oscar gasped.

"Of course, and you want to be ladylike and refined, you know. No rough stuff and no slang. You'll soon get the feminine touch."

"Great Caesar!" groaned Oscar French, "I don't want to get a feminine touch. I want a man's job."

Hawkins turned a curt shoulder. "That's all I have for you now. You can take it or leave it."

Young French set his teeth. "I'll take it."

"Oh, you'll like it when you get started, especially when the personal letters come in. But don't try to answer many of them. It's a waste of time."

Young French strode over to the desk by the window and buried himself in Mrs. Starkweather's files. He began his uncongenial task with grim determination, and soon had the satisfaction of feeling that at least he was equal to it. When some waggish reporters left an offering of camellias and maidenhair ferns with a box of chocolates on his desk he placidly dumped the flowers into the wastebasket and ate the candy with ostentatious relish.

Oscar's manly determination to get the feminine touch was a success. He soon out-Prudenced Prudence herself, and the personal letters poured in assuring Miss Kenworthy that she was "better and better every day."

The personal letters! He did enjoy them, though he followed Hawkins' advice and answered few of them. But he did write personally to Georgie Goodale. Georgie wasn't sentimental or whiny, and she had some "pep." She lived in Martinville with her aunt Rachael. Aunt Rachael was a dear, but she wouldn't let Georgie do anything that the other young people did, and she was opposed to Georgie's studying law.

"Dear Miss Kenworthy," Georgie wrote, "your letters are a comfort and an inspiration, too. The twilight hour is the best in my day. But I'd give my new camera for a talk with you face to face. Now you like fishing; you said you did. Back of our cottage is a wonderful trout brook, and Aunt Rachel's luncheons are gorgeous. Can't we make a date?"

Oscar French caught at the idea. He did make a date with Georgie. He laughed at the mirrored image of his fisherman's costume in anticipation of her surprise. He looked forward like a schoolboy to the tete-a-tete and the good fishing and Aunt Rachel's "gorgeous luncheon." But when he actually stood on the platform of Marshville station he scanned the faces of the women waiting there, half dreading to meet Georgie.

"I have lots of freckles and look like a boy," she had written. He failed to identify the buoyant and vivacious Georgie in the middle-aged and jaded-looking group. A lanky, freckled youth encumbered with fishing tackle, was watching the women who alighted from the train.

"I'm looking for Prudence Kenworthy," he announced impersonally.

"Hello, Georgie," called a genial employee, who was carrying leather mailbags.

Oscar faced the freckled youth.

"That's one of my names."

The freckled youth grinned. "I'm Georgie. The joke's on me," he added magnanimously.

"No, it's on me," French insisted, not to be outdone. "You have the freckles, at any rate. Is there a real trout brook?"

"You bet your life there is! and a cloudy day like this—oh, boy! Come on, partner, and we'll show 'em."

"I'm glad you aren't a lady," Georgie confided to his companion when the wicker baskets were nearly full. "I was beginning to have cold feet."

"So was I," French acknowledged.

"Well, it's time for luncheon, and Aunt Rachel promised to make a peach short-cake. I guess she'll have chicken salad, too."

They tramped across the fields and approached the cottage from the back.

"There's Aunt Rachel in the doorway," cried Georgie, who was striding ahead in the narrow path.

Oscar looked over Georgie's shoulder. That union of girlish grace and womanly poise? Why, Aunt Rachel was peaches and cream!

"Luncheon's ready, Georgie," she called and vanished.

Georgie waved his guest up the broad, low stone steps. Oscar French drew in the fragrance of hot coffee and short-cake and, passing through the low vine-wreathed doorway, he followed Aunt Rachel like a pope.

I kept on faithfully. After the very much better, so much so th I have taken six bottles now and different woman. . . . I feel fi which I took faithfully."

FARMER-BANKER CONFERENCES THROUGHOUT NATION DEVELOP WAYS TO AID AGRICULTURE

Collective Marketing, Diversified Farming, Promotion of Agricultural Education and Use of Bank Instead of Mercantile Credits Chief Lines of Suggested Action.

By D. H. OTIS,

Director, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

D. H. Otis

Four lines of action to improve the business of farming stand out in the discussions that have occurred at a series of farmer-banker conferences now being held throughout the United States. They are collective marketing, diversified farming, the promotion of agricultural education and the use of the more economical bank credit rather than mercantile credit. At many points active steps to foster action along these lines have been taken.

The conferences were initiated by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association to the end that the condition of the man on the farm be improved. The first conference was held in conjunction with the Wisconsin College of Agriculture at Madison. An important point of contact for the work of the Commission was established at this meeting in the form of co-operation with the agricultural colleges.

In five other states—California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Utah—it was agreed at subsequent conferences that bankers' agricultural committees would meet at the state agricultural colleges and, in co-operation with the college officials, work out a program that they would recommend to the banks.

The Texas Plan

It was at the Texas conference that it was developed that the officials of both the bankers' association and of the state college felt the big problem for that state was the establishment of a system of collective, orderly marketing. In order to bring this problem effectively before the farmers and the bankers it was agreed to hold a banker-farmer meeting in December. Efforts will be made to get from 200 to 250 bankers to attend, each banker to bring with him several representative farmers of his community. The program and demonstration will emphasize the need of meeting the marketing problem and point ways to a satisfactory solution.

At Athens, Georgia, the conference recommended that the State Bankers Association take steps to raise a fund for assisting deserving students to complete a college course in agriculture or home economics. This conference, recognizing the valuable work being done by county agricultural and home demonstration agents, also went on record as favoring the employment of agents in each county.

At the Raleigh, North Carolina, conference the pressing problem, in addition to loans for worthy students, was held to be encouragement of the farmer to practice greater crop diversification. The conferees felt that the first big step was to get farmers at least to produce sufficient vegetables, fruit, milk, meat and poultry to live on. Many farmers, it was brought out, now depend entirely on the cotton crop, and buy the products named for their own tables.

More Economical Credit

At the conference at Ithaca, N. Y., those participating felt that a better understanding between farmers and bankers would be beneficial to both. At present a large amount of the credit used by farmers is in the form of mercantile credit, which, it was pointed out, is much more expensive for them than bank credit. It was felt that a campaign of education is needed to acquaint farmers with banking facilities. The conference, therefore, recommended that the Agricultural Committee of the State Bankers Association, the agricultural college and representatives of the Farm Bureau and the State Grange get together for the purpose of working out programs and plans for further meetings to be held in the various counties of the state.

At a conference held at Amherst, Massachusetts, there were representatives from Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Emphasis was placed on the importance of the Boys' and Girls' Club work. The New England conference also felt that the importance of bank credit over mercantile credit should be stressed. A resolution was adopted and is being sent to agricultural committees in each State urging that they get in touch with their agricultural colleges and map out a program for educating the farmer in regard to the importance and the economy of bank credit over mercantile credit.

The emphasis on this resolution came not so much from the bankers present as it did from the representatives of the agricultural colleges and the farmers.

BANKERS' VIEW ON CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The attitude of the American Bankers Association on co-operative marketing favors proper organization to facilitate the orderly movement of farm products, but holds that the co-operatives are as amenable to economic laws as any form of business and cannot be used to gain special benefits for the farmer contrary to the influences of supply and demand and other normal factors. This view was formulated recently by Frank W. Simmonds of the Association before the National Council of Farmers Co-operative and Marketing Associations at Washington.

"It would be unfortunate for the farmer if he becomes imbued with the idea that co-operative marketing in itself is a panacea for all agricultural ills," Mr. Simmonds said. "Co-operative marketing, well organized and wisely managed, can be most helpful in solving market problems. It may prevent untimely dumping, it may secure better credit facilities, it may extend existing markets, it may even create new markets, but obviously its operations will be as amenable to economic law as those of other business enterprises.

What It Cannot Do

"Co-operative marketing cannot prevent other countries with cheaper land and labor from selling in foreign marts at a price unattractive to us. It cannot successfully over-ride the law of supply and demand or maintain for any length of time an artificially high price by withholding a product from market or unduly limiting production. Sane, orderly marketing must be accompanied by sane, orderly thinking.

"We may wisely take a leaf from Danish experience and emphasize efficient, economical, maximum production of standard grade products, for however important co-operative marketing may be in solving the exigencies of the present time, it is only one link in the chain of agricultural problems."

The American Bankers Association, Mr. Simmonds said, believes that solutions of farm problems "should be sought through private enterprise and not through government aid," and approves the endeavors of farmers for orderly marketing.
